

Presenting with Passion

Overview

Being able to talk to a large group of people, keep them engaged, as well as have them retain and use your information is an incredibly useful skill to have. Having this skill means you can influence the way people go about their business, create loyal, long-term customers and develop strong partnerships.

The one day “Presenting with Passion” workshop covers the three main areas that everyone should know when it comes to presenting and making an impact. After this workshop, you should be able to plan and deliver any presentation with confidence and passion with zero chance of putting your audience to sleep.

Course content

- The ability to understand and use the steps of the 3 C's of presenting with passion.
- The ability to dissect your topic and audience to deliver with the greatest impact.
- The knowledge to connect with your audience using communication styles.
- A strong understanding of storytelling.
- A strong understanding of pacing.
- Strategies to build strong and lasting rapport with your audience.
- Develop an action plan to put in place for the future based on the things you have learnt.

Who's it for

This course will benefit anyone who needs to speak, pitch and present with confidence. Getting ready for public speaking doesn't necessarily mean that you will present in front of a large audience; it means that you will be at ease to interact with people and share your thoughts and ideas.
